

The link is a wonderful tool, and when you click the link, not only will it take you to our reservation site, but the BCD# will follow them also!

Sometimes when you copy and paste the link it disassociates the = at the end of the link which causes this URL to malfunction when clicked. You can tell that the = is disassociated with the link because 1.) the = isn't underlined and 2.) when the link is clicked you get a Temporary Outage Page.

When this happens:

1. Right click on the link in the document.
2. Select "Hyperlink" then "Edit Hyperlink".
3. On the Edit Hyperlink popup in the field that says "Type the file or Web page name" go to the end of the link in that field and add the = back on.
4. OPTIONAL: If you want, while you are in that Edit Hyperlink popup, in the "Text to Display" field, overwrite the text with any text that you want.
5. Click "OK"

6. The link
